“We are showing our new non-dripping technology. In traditional syringes, there is a lot of wastage when highly flowable materials seep out. VOCO has developed a new chamber that helps extract the material so there is no wastage at all. So far its new in the market. It has been very well received in Europe. In Singapore and the rest of Asia, we are taking this opportunity to show the doctors here what the NDT is all about.”

“Dr. Jean Bausch KG is a German based world wide articulating and occlusion test materials manufacturer and has participated in all major international dental shows. The FDI EXHIBITION in Singapore 2009 was an excellent opportunity for us to meet all our South - East Asian customers at a key meeting, we are very happy at the results, said Managing Director MILAN RAJEK. Participating also proved beneficial in terms of gaining new distributors in other parts of the world. Currently we are promoting our new improved dispensers and new thickness of paper in different micron sizes. We also have available our new catalogues. We welcome everyone to come to our stand for the next show in Singapore for the IDEM 2010.”

“We have got a huge product range. One of our main products is the Pressure Moulding Technique, the BIOSTAR and the MINISTAR machines, and we have a full range of orthodontic products. There is the Clear Aligner, which is a system to move teeth, an orthodontic treatment with thin invisible splints, and this is what we are going to introduce here, and there will be a seminar on November 8 here in Singapore, and we are taking the opportunity to introduce it. We have had these products in our range for a while, but we take every opportunity we can to introduce our products. One of the things that we like about this show is that we get to see distributors from neighboring countries. This is a good opportunity for me to see my partners from Thailand, from Malaysia, from Indonesia.”
